BUILDING

Located at number 46 Gran Vía, this building by Pedro Muguruza has the honor of being one of the tallest buildings in Madrid.

It is a local emblem of American functional skyscraper architecture and the first of those built in exposed brick on this street.

VENUE DETAILS

On the second, third and fourth floors of the Palacio de la Prensa is Gran Vía Venue, a large space for events that is divided into three exclusive areas for the use of events.

Gran Vía Venue has 940 m² distributed in different environments, which combine a modern style with classic touches typical of the building. In addition, it offers a spectacular view of the Plaza de Callao and Madrid's Gran Vía thanks to its large balconies and tall windows, making it a unique and luminous space in the center of the capital.
